HOW CAN WE LEVERAGE SYSTEMS AND PROCESSES TO IMPROVE SALES EFFECTIVENESS?

49/100
Systems & Processes

These attributes highlight your greatest opportunities to improve sales effectiveness, based on your specific performance gaps and their impact on overall results.

New Salesperson Ramp-up

- Ramp-up expectations are unclear, unrealistic, or misaligned. Delayed productivity, early frustration, and inconsistent expectations may result in higher turnover and reduced sales effectiveness.

Recruiting Process

- The recruiting process is informal or lacks structure. Poor candidate fit, inconsistent hiring outcomes, and longer time to productivity may result in underperformance.

Customer Segmentation

- Customer segmentation is unclear, informal, or not actively used. Unfocused selling, inefficient resource use, and inconsistent market coverage may result in missed opportunities and reduced growth potential.

	Systems & Processes Attributes	Current Effectiveness	Recommended Priority
Focus Now	New Salesperson Ramp-up	Weak	Critical

Currently Tracking Not Tracked

Focus on the metrics that directly impact revenue performance:

Align

- Ensure metrics map to revenue outcomes and growth strategy
- Prioritize leading indicators, not just results

Focus

- Identify 2 to 3 critical gaps limiting performance
- Concentrate on the few metrics that drive behavior change

Act

- Tie metrics directly to coaching, accountability, and execution
- Establish cadence for review and intervention

Outcome

- Clear visibility into what drives performance
- Faster identification of bottlenecks
- Higher probability of hitting and exceeding targets
